*350 NICARAGUA Provisional 1/2 Real 1824 from Grenada, Nicaragua. With the attribution still uncertain 3 1/2 years later, we quote from our catalog #7, item #976: "This coin has an obscure past and we could locate no mention of it in our library. However, we know of two other specimens in an important Latin American collection (one of which has a counterstamp now believed to be from Comayagua, Honduras). The most plausible attribution maintains that the "G" on the obverse represents Grenada, an important city in colonial Nicaragua. The pomegranate is closed similar to the shield of that colonial city and unlike the issues of Nueva Granada, Colombia. The reverse has the Spanish cross with castles and pomegranates in its four quadrants (note the displacement of lions by the pomegranates). The style is very similar to that of the Iturbide period, 1823-1824 (see Honduras 1/2 Real 1823 C11). Below the obverse pomegranate are the tops of two numerals which appear to be "24" for "1824" (now a fact supported by a fourth known specimen). From the Jose T. Medina collection and certainly a Very Rare and important coin." AVF 400.00

A rare Pattern from the 1892-1893 series which combines the 20¢ 1892 obverse with a slightly modified reverse. Probably intended to replace the 20 centavos denomination (as was done in 1911), which was unpopular due to being 80% of the value of the mass-circulating Guatemala 2 Reales. Important and RARE (probably 5-8 pieces extant). In June 1973 our special Central American catalogue offered a piece for $650 which received three orders. Probably very reasonable at a price of 700.00
